SOMETHING FUNNY.

The Pyrotechnic Display at Pompeii Last Night.

The Grand Stand Again Packed and Jammed. It Was Children's Night—Everything Went Smoothly.

The attendance at the Pompeian fete last night was the largest yet. That means a good deal.

The capacity of the grand stand is 9500, and it was filled from side to side and from top to bottom.

It was children's night, and hundreds after hundreds of rowdy-headed archers crowded through the gates. They were appreciative of the spectacle. Throughout the exhibition there was a ceaseless murmur of childish voices, and a constant stream of applause.

Each past of the spectacle was at its best last night.

The opening view, showing the dramatic scene portrayed in Lord Lytton's immortal novel, "The Last Days of Pompeii," were received with even greater effect than ever previously.

There is something fascinatingly realistic in the number scene, enacted as it is in the shadow of an ancient city whose very ruins are a study in themselves.

The scene is set in the time when the light of Christianity first dawned upon the world. The spectator can look back on the centuries of darkness and see the first rays of the sun of truth.

GET THAT FAIR.

A Gentleman Tells What He Saw in Dallas Yesterday.

"Fort Worth has got to have that Driving park and livestock fair!"

So exclaimed Mr. Lewis Wall, as he rushed into the Gazette office at midnight last night.

"I have been over at Dallas to-day. I have watched the way the fair is conducted there. I know how the thing goes."

"And I tell you that if Fort Worth fails to secure this livestock fair, it will be a great loss to the city. The fair is a great success there."

"The racing men are not at all satisfied with the way the races are conducted over there. Good horses are not run there. The track excludes everybody and things that are not a member of the Texas Jockey Association."

"The people look to Fort Worth as the natural place for such an affair. All the horsemen would come here gladly. I talked with them last night. They are all in favor of it."

"The exhibitors of livestock are anxious for Fort Worth to get up a livestock exhibition. For this is their natural headquarters, and here would be concentrated the best specimens of domestic stock in this part of the country."

LOCALITIES.

The subject of Rev. Dr. Tinnon's sermon this morning will be "The Taking of Jericho." The choir, Mrs. Burdette, organist, Miss Pease, soloist; Miss Garvin, alto; Mr. Orchard, tenor; and Mr. Byrthoff, basso, will render some fine music.

The members of the woman's relief corps and Sons of Veterans are requested to meet at the residence of Mr. G. W. Hill on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

This afternoon at 4 o'clock Mr. J. B. Webb of Chicago, Ill., one of the prominent Christian workers of that city, will address the regular meeting of the Young Men's Christian association in their rooms in the Gazette building.

Professor Hall will have charge of the music. All men are invited.

A committee of the chamber of commerce has waited upon the Houston and Texas Central railway officials in this city to ascertain what would be done about the desire for special rates from Waco to Fort Worth during the continuation of the Pompeian fete, as expressed in a letter from Waco published in the Gazette a couple of days ago.

The railroad people say they are ready to furnish a special train whenever a crowd of sufficient size is guaranteed to make excursions.

The case of Burkhardt vs. A. Ockander has been once used in the county court, resulting in a judgment for $45 for the plaintiff, who sued for damages.

Ed Tingstrom has recovered a judgment against J. F. Madison for $43.25 in the county court. The claim arose over a house-building contract.

No much work has been done on the city's artesian well on Tucker hill during the past week, as the tools were stuck in the well. It is now the greatest artesian well in North Texas by several thousand gallons.

Yesterday the regular Democratic campaign in Tarrant county as outlined by the county executive committee at a meeting held at the county offices. Speeches were made by Messrs. A. M. Carter, James W. Swayne and Oscar A. M. Carter.

The Santa Fe is being made the defendant in numerous grass-burning cases these days. A. H. Maas wants $200.00 from the company. August Sadler wants $200, and Alex Henry would like to get $200.50.

Notice to Advertisers.

From and after November 1, next, no time advertisements will be run in THE GAZETTE without written contract, except at the one-time rate.

On January 1, 1891, the advertising rates of THE GAZETTE will be advanced to cover the growth in the cost of the paper.

SUNDAY ADVERTISING.

Patrons desiring full page advertisements on Sunday will pay in advance, on the risk of failure to receive the same.

Parties desiring Sunday changes and additions will please furnish the copy not later than 8 a. m. Saturday, as otherwise it may be impossible to make such change or addition.

To Advertisers.

Advertisers who have no contracts with THE GAZETTE are again urged to contract for what space they may desire. Display advertisements are based on the amount of advertising done, and no specified rate. By contracting with this request advertisers will save money for themselves and facilitate the system of business which is necessary in the conducting of a daily newspaper.
